Synopsis : For two whole sweet years, Sarawat and Tine have lived and spent every minute together happily. Who would realize that their duties can spoil their love life and turn their lovey-dovey zone into a warzone? Whenever the club president and the club secretary have conflicts, Sarawat has to show the club members that he is a ruler and that results in yelling at Tine from time to time. When the duty is over, Sarawat comes home and apologizes to Tine and makes up to him big time. When they work separately and give each other more space to breathe, their relationship seems to be improving. It is when the new set of problems hit them. They do not have enough time for each other anymore and lacking quality time together sometimes leads to jealousy. How can they overcome these obstacles to prove that they are truly love each other.
